

My Very Dear Brothers & Sisters

With Internet, Social media and other various platforms for instant messaging, I understand how one can easily feel overloaded with information, especially as much of it seems to result in the usual process of 'receive, read, delete and forget.'

In today's world of communication excess, in battle with effective communication, it's natural when we forget even the most important messages and lose the trail of information as the threads unravel.

In Genesis 3, we read that God promised to send a Saviour. I think this message was widely forgotten by the time Jesus was born.

In John 14, Jesus promised to return for His own. This message is also just about forgotten in today's age of living for the here and now.

Even the disciples were occasionally forgetful, in Luke 24, after Jesus had risen it reports about the disciples 'And they remembered His words'. Also, Mark 8, they forgot their picnic!

Before we race off to unplug our Wi-Fi, let's benefit from the many advantages of the internet as used by our Church. My default web-site is:

<http://nac.today/en/158033/544336>

With this, we can so easily refer back to, and constantly remind ourselves of important messages and updates from our Chief Apostle and from our worldwide Church

The link above takes us to our Chief Apostle's message for this year, our Motto for 2018.

'Faithful to Christ'

Not to forget our previous messages...

2017 Glory be to God, our Father <http://nac.today/en/158033/431634>

2016 Victory with Christ <http://nac.today/en/158033/292235>

2015 Joy in Christ <http://nac.today/en/158033/190471>

2014 Labour in Love <http://www.nak.org/en/news/news-display/article/18420/>

Yours,

David Middleton